Graphic Design, AAS

The graphic design field is highly competitive for both salaried and freelance positions. There is a demand for designers with above-average talents and graphic art skills. Opportunities in the field range from entry-level layout and production to art director positions.

Demonstrated abilities are most often the key to obtaining a position in the graphic design field. JCCC has structured its graphic design program to help the student develop a comprehensive portfolio. The students have an opportunity to have their work critiqued by a team of professionals every year. These professionals working in the field, along with the faculty, will help develop the student's skills in creative problem-solving and the use of materials, processes, tools, and equipment. Outstanding studio and computer facilities are available for working on class projects. The two-year curriculum consisting of 67 credit hours leads to an associate of applied science degree.

Some GDES courses are typically offered in the fall semester only, and some courses are typically offered in the spring semester only.

Important: Please enroll in the Visual Design Applications (VDA) coursework identified in the credit class schedule as a Graphic Design Qualifier section. The content of these VDA sections emphasizes the Graphic Design career-specific application of the Adobe Creative Suite to industry standards for digital production. These sections are reserved for students enrolling in the Qualifier semester courses.
